

Helm – It's the People at the Helm who make Bristol Company one of the Best

Piling based building company Helm Construction, has achieved the Investor in People Standard, demonstrating the importance they place in their staff and recognising the part they play in moving the company forward.

Commenting on the award Helm representative Richard Haworth said "this achievement helps substantiate our belief that it is only through a fully trained, informed and motivated team of professional people is it possible to truly give a high level of customer service. All of us are very proud of this recognition".

Helm is a company that specialise in new build projects, extensions, renovations and property refurbishment throughout the south West. It has seen its revenues increase three fold over the last twelve months as it concentrates on its policy of differentiating itself from other builders and construction companies through a practice of consistently training its workforce, improving process through technology and delivering projects at the price agreed.

Quality South West assessor Brian Kieran commented: "I am delighted that Helm has achieved the Investor in People Standard. The leadership style is one of practicing what you preach, motivating employees and sharing skills and knowledge. The whole team work as an extended family, supporting and guiding each other and taking full responsibility for their actions".

Investors in People's aim is to help employers across the UK to develop their businesses by making the most of their most valuable asset – their people.
