

Helm in Partnership with the LABC

Piling based building company Helm Construction, is now a recognised partner of the LABC (Local Authority Building Control) which means it can now operate in all LABC regions throughout England and Wales.

Helm is a company that specialise in new build projects, extensions, renovations and property refurbishment throughout the South West. It has seen its revenues increase three fold over the last twelve months as it concentrates on its policy of differentiating itself from other builders and construction companies through a practice of consistently training its workforce, improving process through technology and delivering projects at the price agreed.

LABC's mission is to ensure that buildings are healthy, safe, sustainable and accessible for all users whether domestic, commercial or public service. LABC coordinates the technical application of the Building Regulations and influences new or revised regulations covering new technology, new building methods and environmental performance. LABC also provides a national function to build awareness of local authority building control amongst the public, developers, designers and contractors. In recent years local authority building control teams have shifted the emphasis of their work from "tick box" checking at the end of building projects to helping developers, designers and builders to make the best choices when planning projects. This change of emphasis achieves high quality building. Some of the essential functions of building control are to encourage innovation to produce energy efficient and sustainable buildings, drive out dangerous cheats and rogue traders, rd the investments of individuals and companies and protect the community from dangerous structures.

Richard Haworth from Helm said 'The LABC is an organisation that looks to ensure a high standard of build and construction and they regularly check the build process at various stages on all of the jobs we do. We are now able to clearly display the LABC Partner logo on all of our paperwork and marketing material and this will help re-inforce our commitment to producing quality work and helps reassure our customers that they are dealing with an ethical business that is dedicated to producing a high standard of build. We continue to grow and meeting the criteria for becoming an LABC Partner demonstrates our willingness to adhere to industry set standards which will in turn support our future growth and commitment to providing our customer base with a high level of service'.

All of Helm's customers can benefit from a 6 year warranty that is independently underwritten by Zurich Insurance. All works are carried out by skilled, fully trained professional trades' people at a fixed pre-agreed price and they are fully project managed from start to finish.
